

What was the article about ?

All about how the soldiers coped with the Anzac Biscuits. And some interesting facts about it.

What does this have to do with Anzac Day or the war?

Because the soldiers ate Anzac biscuits.

Title of journal story:
Anzac biscuits

Interesting Fact 1

It was said that these biscuits were so hard that troops had to soak them in water to make them edible.

Interesting Fact 3

The biscuits were mostly sold at galas, parades and other public events. The fact that the biscuits were connected with the troops serving overseas meant that people started referring to them as soldiers' biscuits.

Interesting Fact 2

There is no egg in the Anzac biscuits because so it would last .

Interesting Fact 4

The biscuit that most of us know as the Anzac biscuit is a sweet biscuit made from rolled oats and golden syrup. The original biscuit that was a part of soldiers' and sailors' rations for many years was not sweet; it was a hard biscuit that was used as a substitute for bread.

Interesting Fact 5

After Gallipoli, the New Zealand and Australian troops became known as ANZACS (members of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps).